

Are you leaving money on the table?

Is your business one of the many B2B companies that could be leaving thousands of dollars on the table each year when accepting commercial credit cards from your business or government clients?

B2B and B2G companies generally accept a very high level of what the industry calls commercial credit cards, i.e. business, corporate, procurement or purchasing cards (P-Card), fleet, etc.

You don't know what type of commercial credit card your business / government customers are using until you see the dizzying amount of line items and charges on your merchant processing statements.

Even worse, if you're not meeting the strict Visa / MasterCard requirements for accepting commercial credit cards – you're out of compliance – just like our clients were - you're paying too much!

Your current service provider may not have the resources required to meet the commercial card processing requirements to ensure that your costs are kept as low as possible – many don't.

We solve this issue with our Matrix Virtual Terminal. Our clients are now securely meeting the requirements for accepting commercial credit cards. They gained a streamlined process that cut costs.

It's time to review – here's why

Visa & MasterCard convene every April / October to review, modify or create new Interchange rate categories and requirements. This could negatively impact your bottom-line if you're not working with a company that provides Interchange Optimization management services – like Matrix.

Email or call us for your no-obligation and confidential review of your entire payment process.
